

Agriculture and Food Business (Community-based Business)

Yazaki is doing agriculture and food business at two locations in Japan, based on the philosophy of "Continuing to be a provider that is needed by the local community".

Background or Challenges

Yazaki started agriculture and food business to create jobs and closely work with local communities as the shift of production bases for wire harnesses from Japan to overseas accelerates, leading to domestic industrial hollowing. Sustainable agriculture with the sixth industrialization and development of products in cooperation with local communities are required.

Solutions to Challenges

- 1 Agriculture Growing crops suited to the local environment
- 2 Agriculture Selling processed foods using substandard crops as part of measures against food loss
- 3 Food Planning, manufacturing, and selling processed foods using local ingredients as part of regional revitalization activities
