Reason for selection

Yazaki Corporation was selected based on a well-balanced evaluation of all five elements.

Comment from Executive Officer and Advanced Technology R&D Division General Manager Yamada:

We believe that Yazaki was able to receive this honor four times and for the second consecutive year thanks to the high evaluation of our strategic approach to intellectual property.

In recent years, the momentum of technological innovation has been growing in all industries including the automotive industry. Our company has a wide range of businesses, including automobile equipment and living environment equipment, and in order to accelerate innovation beyond these existing areas of business and create new value, we will continue to promote intellectual property activities that utilize our global network.
